

Interior Design

Wooding Design was hired to design all of the interiors for a new home in Newport, RI. Special effort was put into the kitchen, living room and particularly in the main stair hall which features a large scale circular stair capped with a domed ceiling and custom designed handrail. Additionally, a lot of technology was integrated into the design such as a complete digital entertainment server, plasma screens and remote access media management including movies and music libraries stored on a home based server.
